A very pleasant birthday remembrance was held Sunday at the residence of our fellow-townsman, Chas. Polker. It was the birthday anniversary of both Mr. Polker and his estimable wife, he being 48 years old while she passed her 46th mile stone. About 75 people were present and a most enjoyable time was had.

Those from a distance were Mr. Henry Genther and wife, of Wause-on, and Mr. John Wolf and wife, of Liberty Center.

They asked her where she lived and she said Holgate, and from answers to other questions, the boys made out she had lost her way. It seems she lived near Holgate and had gone to Sunday school in the afternoon. Her usual way home after school was down the railroad track, but her timely warning. young companions frightened her so by telling about snakes they had seen Springtime, with all its rejunevating qualities, is here,

From Toledo to Europe The first shipment of corn direct from Toledo to Europe is being made this week. Eight Canadian vessels will carry the shipment, and it is intended to ship about 3,000,000 bushels of corn in this way this spring. And in the early part of the summer it is expected that about 5,000,000 bushels of wheat will be taken to Europe in the same way. It is believed grain shipments direct from the port of Toledo to Europe will be profitable, and why it should not be is past under-standing. But why is it that Canadi an vessels carry the grain instead of American vessels? That is a condi-tion of things which should not be. American trade should be built up again on the high seas.

information from other papers and fields of instruction, as I claim for any other party. If, however, Mr. Russell thinks that republicans would have failed to see and read the staterors that appeared in the statement. In speaking of the constantly in-creasing indebtedness of the county fund and the additional levy that would have paid the floating debt of that fund at the close of the fiscal year of 1887, and kept the fund selfto the present time, I intended that the statement should read as follows:

"If the levy for these five years had been four and four tenths mills in-stead of three and one tenth mills, a difference of one and three tenths nills, the result would have been vasty different. The county fund on the lst day of Sept., 1892, would have de-clared an amount on hand above all indebtedness and expenditure of of $1,226.39 instead of a deficit of $40,477.16. The principals of mathematics of the log cabin era and the present era are nevertheless the same, and yet Mr. Russell, after having had the honor of being auditor of Henry the second of paying the county debt and meeting current expenses with the lowest possible levy consistent with honest compensation for services actually rendered. Very respectfully submitted, J. H. RESH. ounty for three years, does not speak means that it was the best sale ever made prior to 1890, I agree with him, but if he includes in that assertion the several sales of bonds made since the year 1890 and to be paid in installments, then I do not agree with him for the following reason, to-wit: If this bonded debt of $100,000, issued in 1890 at 4 per cent., is paid as per contract, it will cost in interest $60,-000. It has cost in expense to refund and place the bonds as per Mr. Rus-On Tuesday, May 1st, Mr. Nat. Tyler, of Boston, Mass., and Miss Maude Heller, of this city, were united in marriage, atthe residence of S. M. Heller, an uncle of the bride. The ceremony took place at high noon and was performed by Rev. M. L. Donahey. Immediately afterwards a reception was held for the immediate relatives of the bride and groom, and at 3:15 p. m. the young couple left for their future home in Medford, Mass.

Those present from a distance were: sell's statement, $3,125, total when paid, $163,125. Suppose these same bonds had been issued to run 10 years at 5 per cent., and after the 3rd year to be paid in 7 annual installments as follows: $10,000 in 1894 and $15,000 each of the remaining six years. The cost then would have been in interest $35,750, principal $100,000, total cost $35,750, or a saving to the people in favor of the payment of the debt by installments at 5 per cent, interest, of $27,375. Now if these bondshad been issued as above stated, the purchaser of the bonds would have had a better investmest than had the purchaser of ulian Tyler, of Toledo; Mrs. Poe, of the bonds sold Jan. 1st, 1893, when Findlay; Mrs. Showman, of Van Bur-en; Mrs. Trout, of Findlay; Mrs. Chenevert and Miss Della Bechel, of Defiance, and Messrs. Sam Heller, Will Tyler and Frank Heller, of Tolethe money market was much more stringent than in 1890. The investment would have been better because these bonds of $35,000 of 1893 were only on interest one year, and each succeeding year the principal will be $7,000 less until paid. But if the bonds of $100,000 of 1890 had been issued as above stated, the whole $100,000 would have drawn 5 per cent. interest for the first four years, and there is not the least doubt but that those bonds Rebecca Witkinson, of Brownsvalley, Ind., says:

On the contrary, I am very much obliged to Mr. Russell for publishing my last statement. Not that the taxpayers in these degenerate in the interest of lishing my last statement. Not that the taxpayers in these degenerate and extravagant times, so far removed and different from the simplicity of I think for a moment that republicans do not read any other county papers except the Signal, for I concede to republicans the same high decree of intelligence and disposition to glean and different from the simplicity of the log cabin era. These are the times of great promise and little performance, and as every officer in ev-ery court house in Ohio, from turret to foundation stone, makes his own record as to compensation demanded for services rendered and supplies used, he should be held responsible ment had he not published it, then I as the servant of the people and com-am doubly obliged to him, and on ac-mended or condemned according to count of his reply to the same my at-tention has been called to a few erbe applieded for his merit nor cen-sured for his demerit. Mr. Russell also, on two oc-casions, uses the word frantic in speaking of the desire of the commis-sioners to transfer surplus funds to pay the unbonded indebtedness of the county fund. That surely is a very inappropriate word for a man of Mr. Russell's mental caliber to use in that connection, being in full posin that connection, being in full possession of the fact, as he surely is, that section 876 of the revised statutes of Ohio authorizes the commissioners of any county to transfer funds without any anxiety whatever, but it is still a mooted question as to whether the court house will require an entire new roof or whether it can be repaired with less expense accord only one and three tenths mills would ingly and make a good roof. If it will require a new roof then the word only one and three tenths mills would have proven to be immensely in the interest of the tax-payers of Henry county, and the additional levy of one and three tenths mills scarcely felt, and the bonded debt for which the whole county is held and firmly bound would have been on the let der frantic in that connection will surely be obselete. In conclusion allow me to say that in this and each former statement I whole county is held and firmly bound would have been on the 1st day of January 1893, $130,000 instead of $165,000, etc." Also, in speaking of the duplicate valuation of the 88 counties in Ohio, I meant to have said that the valuation of 79 of them was greater than that of Henry county and only eight of less valuation. House—The Musgrove medical bill and the Haskell local option bill were defeated. The kouse refused to concur in the senate amendments to this year's appropriation bill, and it went to the conference commiftence. The house finance committee reported back Locke's bill to increase the state levy three-tenths of a mill for two years. It was made a special order for next Wednesday at 10:15. The Doty bill, appropriating money to be raised under the Locke bill for the construction of new state institutions, was set for the same day.

SENATE—Only two bills were passed, one of them being Mr. McMaken's bill prohibiting persons from standing on or walking on railroad trucks, which was defeated Wednesday afternoon. The other bill passed was Mr. Abbott's, amending the pharmacy law.

SENATE—The Strehli street railroad bill was repealed. 17 to 4. A bill for the preservation of forest trees was introduced. The consideration of the house resolution by Mr. Locke providing for adjournment May 7 was postponed until Wednesday.

House—Several local bills were passed and a number of reports submitted. The only thing of any interest done was the introducing of a joint resolution by Mr. Locke. It provides for another constitutional amendment question on the everlasting taxation subject to be submitted to popular vote. This amendment provides for the taxing of privileges and franchises for the entire support of the state government. Each locality is to fix its own tax rate through a local board of tax commissioners.

Both branches adjourned until Monday. Monday.
